For friends and supporters of LOROS Hospice Winter 2019/20 Issue 11

"As we enter our 35th year, our mission remains clear – to provide excellence in end of life and palliative care for all of our community."

Welcome

I would like to wish you a very Happy New Year.

This issue of LOROS Matters showcases the difference that you, our friends and supporters, have made to our patients and families over the past year.

I'm particularly pleased to showcase our strategic plans for the years ahead (see pages 4-5), which bolster our longheld ambition to have a greater presence in delivering care in the community and being closer to people at home. Just one initiative is the Compassionate Communities project being developed in Market Harborough, funded by The Bowdens Charity.

Another long-held ambition has been to diversify our income streams and find new ways to fund patient care. The launch of Care for a Drink (see pages 10-11) highlights how we are doing this.

2020 marks the start of our 35th Anniversary year, with September being the month that we welcomed our first patient all those years ago. We'll share our celebratory plans with you later in the year!

As we enter our 35th year. our mission remains clear – to provide excellence in end of life and palliative care for all of our community, something we simply couldn't do without your support.

As always, thank you.

Planning for the future

It has become increasingly apparent that both national and local landscapes are changing financially, politically, socially – and demands on all aspects of the NHS and social care systems are growing. Reduction in government funding and increasing need, specifically from an ageing population with multiple illnesses, are putting a real strain on resources.

It is important for us as a charity to ensure that we intelligently use all the resources available to us.

to work with NHS colleagues to support local services and ensure our patients get access to the best possible support, advice and care.

The main focus for the next three years will be the prioritisation of high-quality patient care, along with the aspiration to further expand our support into the community. In addition, we will continue to support and develop our staff to ensure they have the right skills.

To support our ambitions, we will develop a Quality Improvement approach, focusing on outcomes and engaging staff, patients, carers and colleagues together to improve and redesign the way that care is provided and the organisation is structured.

We will maximise our collaborations with local charities to initiate partnerships that will enhance the voluntary sector.

We will continue to be prudent with all the income we receive to ensure the long-term financial sustainability of our care services. This is crucial as our aspirations for the next three years are dependent upon ability to maintain and grow our income.

Here are just some of the initiatives we will deliver by 2023:

 Expand our counselling service by appointing a children's and young person's counsellor who will also support local schools and colleges dealing with the terminal illness or death of a student.

- · Develop a number of Compassionate Communities to enable local people to support their neighbours in different ways.
- Establish the first LOROS Wellbeing Centre out in the local community, helping patients and families earlier in their illness, encouraging them to manage their illnesses more effectively and access a number of services without having to travel to the Hospice.
- Develop a LOROS at Home service to provide short term specialist care at home.

• Develop a new way of offering videoconferencing training (called ECHO) to support care home staff to look after their residents who are dying (see page 29).

Where does our money come from?

As a charity, only 27% of our income comes from the NHS. That means each year we must raise the remaining £8.4 million to be able to continue to deliver our care. Last year, our 2018/19 income was £11.3 million and here's where it came from...

- Site Development Funding
- Gifts in Wills
- Dividend and Interest Income

How we spend our money

Every year, our income is spent on delivering our specialist care at the Hospice, out in the community and in patients' own homes. We also invest in securing our future by investing funds on raising awareness of our charity and generating future income.

Pete's Bucket List

Pete Huckle was determined to tick some very important items off his bucket list before he died.

With the help of family, friends and LOROS staff, the former chef was treated like royalty on a trip to London's West Fnd to see the Lion King and also enjoyed a seven-course, gourmet tasting menu.

Pete was diagnosed with leukaemia in 2014 and following a bone marrow transplant, he suffered from graft-versus-host disease, where donor cells attacked his body tissue.

The 32-year-old's first bucket list item arose from a previous trip to see the Lion King on stage with best friend Vikki.

Pete explained: "We had been waiting for months to go but the magic just wasn't there for me. I was feeling unwell, very unwell in fact. And because of this I didn't really engage with the show. I couldn't get up the next day and was really suffering."

Pete sought medical advice, leading to his diagnosis with leukaemia and more than four years of procedures and treatments.

But Pete had unfinished business with the Lion King, and thanks to a grant from the John Heaas/ Bates Fund and help from the team at LOROS, he and Vikki returned to London to watch the show again.

"The seats were the best in the house, the show was fantastic. Every bit about my special day was perfect," he said.

Pete also hoped to fulfil a dream to dine at a Michelin-starred restaurant but was too poorly, so he and his former boss. James Bambury, designed a tasting menu, which he named Life's Compl-EAT.

With Pete's health deteriorating, James had days to organise a chef, waiters and fine-dining table dressings.

He added: "A lot of people have these misconceptions surrounding hospices, that they're doom and gloom, and all about death. For me, LOROS has been about making the best of every situation."

Since telling his story, Pete has sadly died. His family wanted us to share the story in his memory.

Reaching out to a new generation

The LOROS Youth Ambassador volunteer programme launched with its first cohort of three in June 2019 and a second recruitment in October 2019.

The Youth Ambassadors. aged between 16 and 30, are working with the Youth Engagement Officer and Community Engagement team to raise awareness of LOROS Hospice among youth communities across Leicester. Leicestershire and Rutland.

The ambassadors complete a minimum of a year volunteering with the Hospice and will receive formal recognition upon finishing.

The programme is cost neutral to LOROS thanks to financial support from NHS

England and Pukka Pies. The funding has enabled us to provide leadership and communication skills training for the ambassadors, which they are using in their role and when visiting schools, colleges and universities.

This new volunteering programme offers a variety of opportunities. The ambassadors have attended the first Youth Voice Summit in London to support the signing of the Youth Charter by NHS England, as well as showcasing the programme at the Health Innovation Expo in Manchester.

We were also accepted to showcase the development of the programme at the Hospice UK Conference in November 2019.

Join our fantastic volunteering team!

A huge variety of volunteering opportunities are available at the Hospice and in the community.

Support our fundraising team by helping at events or by collecting charity boxes.

Volunteer on our Hospice snack bar, which serves visitors, staff and patients seven days a week from 8.30am until 9pm. The snack bar is often considered the central hub of the Hospice and is a great source of support for many people. We are particularly short of volunteers for evenings and weekends.

We have 29 shops and two warehouses, and urgently need volunteers to help us in the following locations:

- Reuse shop at Gypsum Close Recycling Centre
- Pullman Road shop (and warehouse) in Wigston
- Glenfield shop (and warehouse)
- Wigston shop
- Furniture shops on Uppingham Road and Welford Road

If you're interested, please just pop in and have a chat with the shop managers.

Are you a dab hand at eBay? If so, we'd love to hear from you! We're looking for people to help us list items to raise vital funds for LOROS.

Being diagnosed with a terminal illness is devastating, and turns a family's world upside down. What becomes important is making the most of the days, weeks and months left.

Can you give every month to help us be here every day?

By setting up a regular donation to LOROS, you will help ensure we can continue caring for our patients and their families, not just today but in the future as well.

All in a day's work

I am Janet Manuel, Day Therapy and Outpatients Manager at LOROS. We offer fortnightly sessions for patients to help manage symptoms like breathlessness and fatigue, as well as providing emotional support.

7.30am: I arrive at the Hospice and look at the list of patients we have coming in today. As well as visiting Day Therapy, many will also see their consultants and I coordinate their appointments to make their visit as easy as possible.

8.40am: Handover, The Day Therapy team meets to discuss the needs of the patients attending. We assess levels of mobility and risk of falls. We're joined by volunteer drivers who bring the patients in.

9.15am: The first patients begin to arrive, dropped off by relatives and volunteers. Staff welcome people in, whilst volunteers make patients tea and toast.

9.30am: We start our nurse-led assessment of patients. When a patient first comes to Day Therapy we look at their needs and create a programme of support and care for them.

11am: Wellbeing session. We run a range of different sessions from coping with breathlessness to armchair exercise, tai chi and mindfulness. These are very popular. and patients tell us they help provide techniques and strategies that can be used at home.

12.30pm: Lunch. Our kitchen assistant serves patients' lunches and volunteers help feed those that require help.

I spend some time contacting new patients. I have to risk assess their immediate needs over the phone and arrange which days they will attend.

1.30pm: Social activity. In the afternoon we run an activity like yoga or something fun like a quiz or bingo. Cecilia, our creative facilitator, will run an art therapy activity, like painting, which is great because patients can join in whatever their level.

There's always a lovely upbeat atmosphere in Day Therapy – it's often a very lively place in the afternoons!

Patients can access complementary therapy for a massage or reflexology and we also have volunteers who do hairdressing and manicures. The patient may be seeing their hospice consultant while they're with us, however, they might really want to have their hair done so we try hard to accommodate that.

- 2.30pm: Patients have tea and cake before they start to leave at 3pm. My team helps get them back on the minibuses to be driven home.
- 3.30pm: Nurses write up their assessment notes from discussions with patients.
- 4.30pm: Rooms are cleared. tidied and cleaned, ready for the next day's patients.

Did you know?

- We can take up to 20 patients at Day Therapy sessions. On average we get 16 to 17 which is perfect because we can give them all individual attention.
- We have a team of six people including registered nurses and health care assistants. We also have a creative facilitator who runs the art groups.
- Our Enablement team (physio and occupational therapy) sits in on all our assessments so patients don't need to meet with them separately.

Our community heroes

We are extremely lucky to have so many fantastic supporters in the local community, and we want to thank you all. Your support is really valued and is a major part of fundraising for the Hospice.

Harish's Story

Harish Davda, 67, was diagnosed with Motor Neurone Disease (MND) in 2005. He was forced to give up work and struggled with his diagnosis but

"In 2005, I was working at Walkers Crisps in Leicester, in charge of the production line, about 82 people – a really responsible job, when I developed a pain in my shoulder.

"I was referred to a consultant at the hospital, who told me he thought I had MND but he couldn't confirm it.

Harish was off work while the hospital ran tests but didn't know what to tell his employers.

"They didn't know why I wasn't at work - and neither did I, I was really shocked."

Harish was put in touch with LOROS and spoke to an MND specialist nurse. She arranged for a letter from the hospital explaining his suspected condition.

"I used to have

"It was a difficult time. Finally the diagnosis came through and I was told I had about eighteen months to live.

"I remember telling the LOROS MND nurse that I couldn't really believe it as I felt fine.

"There's nothing wrong with me,' I said. 'I don't accept I have MND.' I still find it hard to understand.

"My family was really struggling. My daughter, who was 16 at the time, said: 'You won't be at my wedding'. I said don't worry, I'll be there. I didn't believe it you see. It was a really difficult period."

In fact, 18 months later it became apparent Harish's MND wasn't progressing as fast as expected which was fantastic news for his family. He now attends LOROS Day Therapy every two weeks.

"I get a lot of aches and pains and a few years ago I pulled a muscle in my leg. LOROS MND nurses helped me get a bed downstairs in my living room and chair for my toilet. They were very helpful.

"I've had some falls and that really knocks my confidence. The LOROS nurses tell me I have to keep walking or I will lose the ability. They push me and I push myself too. They keep telling me I can do this.

"My hands don't work so well but when I come to Day

"They push me and I push myself too."

Therapy I really enjoy the painting and concentrate really hard on writing my name. My fingers get tired but it's good for me and I can write a bit when I try really hard.

"I feel supported by the LOROS MND nurses, and my family do too. They speak to them regularly about my condition as I'm hard of hearing and sometimes miss things. We're all very grateful they're here for us."

Matilda shines light on inequality

Research Associate Matilda Maniari came to LOROS to explore how inequality in end of life care affects patients from Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) backgrounds.

She arrived in October 2018 from Staffordshire, where she was involved in a study on health professionals' views and experiences of providing end of life care.

She said: "I've never worked in a hospice and this job has been a very big change. The thought of conducting interviews with patients nearing the end of their lives was daunting, especially as I wanted to explore such a sensitive subject, which in some cultures is considered taboo.

"This experience is so very inspiring and rewarding. It's a privilege to make a difference through thought-provoking and essential research that aims to address inequality in end of life health care."

The project, funded by the National Institute for Health Research, is called Thinking Ahead about Medical Treatments in Advanced Illness: A Qualitative Study of Barriers and Enablers in End-of-life Care Planning with Patients and Families from Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic (BAME) Backgrounds.

EDUCATION AT LOROS

Project ECHO Linking healthcare professionals

LOROS is at the heart of an exciting initiative as a Project ECHO Hub, using video conferencing technology to help healthcare professionals share knowledge and experience.

The shared learning provided by the technology is supported by a dedicated LOROS team of clinical presenters and administrators.

Project ECHO offers us an excellent opportunity to extend our training and education portfolio by being the ECHO Hub for Leicester, Leicestershire and Rutland. ECHO provides a platform for us to work with multiple providers and widen our services for others that support patients with end of life care needs.

The ECHO technology provides a cost-effective way of providing training and education to a far greater number of people than having classroomonly based teaching. This technology offers a more creative method of sharing knowledge and using time more effectively.

We currently have two running ECHO projects delivering sessions on end of life care topics to residential and nursing care home staff. The aim is to create a workforce of more confident and knowledgeable staff, able to deliver high-quality palliative care to their residents and reducing the number of people being

Your £1 could make a huge difference

Nicky from Stoney Stanton is one of our £2,000 jackpot winners. She joined the LOROS Lottery in September 2018 and just one year later she'd won the top prize. She visited the Hospice to collect her cheque, pictured here at the Memory Tree in the LOROS garden.

"LOROS is such an amazing place. I'm lucky enough to have worked at LOROS, so understand first-hand what goes into staff training and development, to ensure that patients and their families receive the highest quality care and support. I've lived in Leicestershire for most of my life, so wanted to do something that may one day benefit me, my friends or family. LOROS means so much to so many people, and I'm proud to be part of that. I'm absolutely delighted to have won, and will enjoy making special memories with my family."

Signing up to the LOROS Lottery is easy, visit loros.co.uk/lottery to find out how.

Thank you for your support

We'd like to say a big thank you to our business sponsors.

This year's Accumulator Challenge was organised by Business Live Connections. Angela Padfield helped recruit seven teams: Arbonne with Lucy Woodward, Creed Design Associates Ltd. Leicester Mercury, Metric Connect, Regional Recruitment Services and Vipul Raithatha and his family. Together they raised an amazing £2,559 with Regional Recruitment claiming the top spot.

We would like to thank all the sponsors and participants that helped to make the 2019 LOROS Golf Day such a great success, enabling us to raise almost £17.000. Our headline sponsor for the event was LCM Wealth Management and event supporters included Norths, Spire, Sturgess and Swithland Water. Tee sponsors this year were BS Handling Systems Ltd, Camozzi, Charnwood Brewery, Clements, CSL Business Machines Ltd, Edith Murphy Foundation, ISF Coating, Jonstar, KPMG, Oceanair and Walker Movements Ltd. The event would not be possible without the hard work of teams from SJ Events, Danny Spillane Golf Retail Limited and Rothley Park Golf Club.

Our Light Up a Life Christmas appeal continues to be supported by our partner Morningside Pharmaceuticals.

Thanks to NEXT for being headline sponsor of our ball.

Make LOROS part of your big day

You may want to play in memory of a loved one, to add an extra special touch to your day, or just for fun. Whatever vour reason, make LOROS a part of your celebration with our scratch cards.

Emma and Adam chose to support us on their wedding day, because they wanted to make a difference:

"We had a day full of surprises planned for our quests, the scratch cards added that little something special. We saw the scratch card favours as an ice breaker for our friends and family, something fun to do while at the table. Our guests really enjoyed them, and we even had a number of winners in the room. As well as the scratch cards. we also had a LOROS Robin on a memory table to remember our loved ones who couldn't be with us. This was our little way of trying to make a difference to somebody else's day."

For that personal touch, why not add your names and wedding date to the scratch cards? Now available to order, please email loroslottery@loros.co.uk for further information.

To order our standard scratch cards, visit one of our 29 shops. visit loros.co.uk/scratchcards.or call (0116) 231 8430.

Relax and unwind in our new facilities

As we continue to develop and enhance our facilities. we are pleased to showcase some of the latest available to our patients and their families

The Reach Room is a beautiful calm and relaxing space overlooking our courtyard garden. It is being used for small group work, such as help with breathlessness classes, and for delivering Tai Chi and mindfulness sessions.

Immersive equipment has been installed in the breakout room in Day Therapy.

The room now transforms into an interactive environment for patients to enjoy, and provides calming and relaxing scenes. The space has been designed so that beds from the Ward can also be accommodated.

Families of loved ones staving on our Ward are able to spend some precious time together in our new family retreat room. Here they can relax, enjoy a meal and cuppa in front of the TV - a real home-fromhome comfort.

Why leave a gift for LOROS in your Will?

When making a Will your first thought may be to make sure that family and friends are provided for, but after that you may wish to leave a gift to charity.

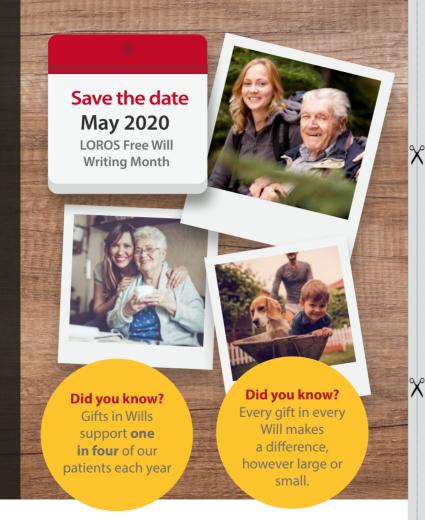

I have had personal experience of the work and support that LOROS gives to its patients and their families. My late husband was diagnosed with terminal cancer in 1988 and it was LOROS that helped and cared for him and my family until he died in 1989. Like so many people, I wanted to say thank you and to give something back for the wonderful care that was given to us and that is why I have left a gift to LOROS in my Will.

As President of LOROS, I am asking you to consider making a gift in your Will too. This will help to ensure that the special care and support will be there in the future for our patients and their families. My grateful thanks go to you all for considering supporting us in this way.

Jennifer, Lady Gretton DCVO JP President of LOROS
